

Simulations for radiation therapy

Dr. David Sarrut

*Chargé de recherche CNRS
CREATIS, UMR CNRS 5220, Inserm U 1044
Centre de lutte contre le cancer Léon Bérard
28 rue Laënnec, 69373 Lyon cedex 08
Tel : 04 78 78 51 51 / 06 74 72 05 42
<http://www.creatis.insa-lyon.fr/~dsarrut>*

Radiation therapy is one of the main therapeutic tool for cancer treatment. The simulation of the interactions between the therapeutic beam (photon or hadron) and matter is important for the treatment planning. We will present some works, based on Monte-Carlo method and involving high performance computing to compute dose distribution inside patient data. We will also present the interest of open-source software in this field.